If he had reformed when he once more donned the clothes of an honest man she would help him to regain most that he had lost. She toiled early and late at dressmaking, and was not discouraged by sucers and hints from her husband when she visited him. Although Carney says that she was unfaithful to him while he was in prison, he does not cite a fact that establishes his accusation, while there is abundant proof that during his incarceration she often went without necessary clothing to care for her boy, and was constantly

The archives of the present Government contain many curious communications, but none probably possess a more romantic interest than the following, which a correspondent of the Boston Herald was permitted to read one day recently by a Treasury Department official. It was a letter which accompanied a large sum of money as a contribution to the conscience fund. The writer began by stating that in the year 1866 he was a passenger on the steamship Henry Chauncey, New York to San Francisco. After the famous mouse-trap known as the "Convention of Gastein," into which Austria had fallen, Manteuffel was appointed civil and military Gov-ernor of Keswig, where, according to Count Bismarck's instructions, he virtually confiscated Austria's part in that portion of Danish spoils. Vainly did General von Gablenz, the Austrian Governor of Holstein, invoke the aforesaid Convention of Gastein. Manteuffel went on, and the rupture between the two countries was soon complete.

Manteuffel's personal appearance was anything but prepossessing. He was tall and meagre, and his thin, sharplydefined face, surrounded by a full-beard cut short, and lit up by his dark eyes under powerful eyebrows, gave him a somewhat wild look. In his military attitude, designedly careless, Manteuffel attempted to imitate Frederick the Great, whom he also followed in the habit of always carrying crutch-stick. His manners toward the common soldiers were uncommonly amiable, and towards officers roug and repelling. From the war indemnities of 1866 and 1870 the Emperor RICHMOND BAZAAR, granted him, as well as other prominent generals, a considerable donation, which enabled him to purchase a large estate. His family life is said to have been very agreeable. He had only one daughter, to whom he was devotedly attacked. She was at one time be trothed to Major-General von Wedell, but for some inexplicable reason the engagement was broken off on the eve of the wedding.

A CASE RESEMBLING THAT OF GENE-RAL GRANT.

Some ten years ago I had a scrofulous sor on my right hand which gave me greatrouble, and under the old-time freakmen was healed up, and I supposed I was well, found, however, it had only been driven int the system by the use of potash and merce my, and in March. 1882, it broke out in minicat, and concentrated in what some the doctors denominated cancer. I was placed under treatment for this disease some six or seven of the best physicians i the paiale and under lip entirely and half my longue, eating out to the top of my left cheek-bone and up to the left eye. From a hearty robust woman of 150 pounds, I was reduced to a mere frame of skin and bones, almost unable to turn myself in bed. I could not eat any solid food, but subsisted on liquids, and my tongue was to far gone I could not talk. The augusts of mind and the horrible sufferings of body which I experienced never can be revealed. Given up by physicians to die, with no hope of recovery upon the part of friends who sat around my bed-side expecting every moment to be my last; in fact, my husband would place his hand on me every now and then to see whether I was allve or not, and at one time all decided that life was extinct, and my death was reported all over the country.

Such was my wretched and helpless condition the first of last October (1884), when my friends commenced giving me Swiff's Specific. In less than a month the eating paces stopped and healing commenced, and the fearful aperture in my cheek has been closed and firmly knilled together. A process of a new under lip is progressing finely, and the tongue, which was almost destroyed, is being recovered, and it seems that nature is supplying a new tongue, I can talk so that my friends can readily understand me, and can eat solid food again. I am able to walk about wherever I please without the sesistance of any one, and have gained fifty pounds of ficsh. All this, under the blessing of a merelint Heavenly Father, is due to Swiff's Specific I am a wonder and a marvet to all my friends, hundreds of whom have known my intense suderings, and have visited me in my affletions. While I am not entirely well, yet my gratitude is none theless decout, and I am conditant that a perfect recovery is now in signt. If any doubt these facts, I would refer them to Hon. John H.
